Reviews

This publication will be worth purchasing. It really is written in simple terms instead of difficult to understand. It has been designed in an exceptionally simple way and is particularly only right after I finished reading this ebook in which basically modified me, alter the way I believe.

Take four women, friends since school. Add four men, six days and ninety-five miles of breathtaking Scottish Highland scenery, and you have a recipe for a journey filled with secrets and lies, accusations and apologies, laughter and tears, aches and pains, blisters and midge bites. Joy is a perfectionist who doesn't do failure. She has kept her friends at a distance for so many years that she feels they don't know her anymore and could never understand how she feels. She has been meticulous in her planning of the holiday, how could she have known that the secret she had protected and guarded for so many years would be revealed the night before the holiday, threatening to blow apart her life with Daniel and the fragile mask of their perfect marriage. Kathy's pleasant demeanour hides a demoralised woman with little self belief. She adores her friends and longs for the normality of their loving relationships. She loves hill walking and agrees to join her friends, not imagining for an instant that her controlling husband, Tony would join them. But she takes solace in the fact that he is driving the bus - not walking with the group. Her secret plans to start a new life become more urgent as she feels increasingly suffocated by Tony's presence, and humiliated by her own behaviour. Ruth is caring, lively and funny but also lonely and bored. Always the diplomat, she often finds herself mediating in highly charged encounters between the other women. She doesn't think she'll manage five miles let alone ninety five, but the prospect of...
