THE EQUITY AND GOODNESS OF GOD VINDICATED, AND THE ASPERSIONS OF THE INFIDEL SHOWN TO BE GROUNDLESS. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal--Ezek. xviii. 291 In answer to the invitation thrown out in my last discourse, I have received a letter, I presume from one of your number, calling my attention to a text in the Apocalypse which I had omitted to notice. The fact is, I had fully intended speaking of that text and the objection founded thereon, in my last address, but was obliged, through press of other matter, to omit it. I am sincerely obliged to my correspondent for affording me the opportunity of supplying the omission before finally closing this subject, as I should be sorry to leave a doubt upon the mind of any one of my hearers, which, by reasonable and legitimate argument, I might have power to remove. The text referred to is: --And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the Beast and the False Prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever (Rev. xx. 10). That is the text, and I cannot better state the objection founded thereon than in the words of my correspondent. He says--I have always supposed Satan to be an immortal spirit. If so, must not his punishment be eternal and therefore the lake of fire into which he was cast be eternal This sounds very...
