Original publisher: Charlottesville, VA : Dept. of Materials Science, School of Engineering and Applied Science, University of Virginia ; Hampton, Va. : National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Langley Research Center, 1990 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)65174258 Excerpt: . . . oo Thermal Gradient Structures. Eleven specific research projects are ongoing within these areas. These projects, which form the basis for the dissertation requirement of graduate studies, currently involve ten faculty, two research associates and eleven graduate students. The majority of the graduate students are at the doctoral level and are citizens of the United States. Research is conducted at either UVa or LaRC, and under the guidance of UVa faculty and NASA staff. Each project is developed in conjunction with a specific LaRC researcher. Participating students and faculty are closely identified with a NASA-LaRC branch. A primary goal of the LAZST Program is to foster interdisciplinary research. To this end, many of the research projects share a common focus on light and reusable aerospace structures which will be subjected to aggressive terrestrial and space environments; with emphasis on both cryogenic and elevated temperature conditions with severe thermal gradients typical of tankage structures. Organization of Progress Report This progress report provides organizational and administrative information (viz. , statistics on the productivity of faculty and student participants, a history of current and graduated students, and a list of ongoing projects with NASA and UVa advisors). Twelve sections summarize the specific technical accomplishments of each research project for the period from January 1st to June 30th of 1990, and as presented at the First Grant Review Meeting held on June 13th and 14th. Appendices document grant sponsored publications and conference participation, and provide abstracts of technical papers. 7 This...
